If this is all you know about OSU, you have a lot to learn.

The Ohio State University points with pride to our Buckeye traditions, and to having the nation's largest enrollment of any educational institution on one campus. But as a community of learning, OSU's academic reputation stretches far beyond the Buckeye State. In the classroom and in the research laboratory, Ohio State "Buckeyes" have earned national recognition.

Here are a few of the reasons for our nationwide reputation:

The 65 National Merit Scholars in this year's freshman class place OSU among the highest in the USA. The University also has four National Achievement Scholars and about 400 Freshman Scholars in the class of 1979

OSU's College of Optometry ranks first in academic excellence among the nation's optometry schools, according to a poll of deans conducted by "Change" magazine. Ranked third in the nation are the College of Pharmacy and the College of Education, while the College of Veterinary Medicine is fourth.

The College of Dentistry enrolled the largest entering class in the country, 200 in July 1975. The College of Veterinary Medicine has the largest enrollment in North America—510 veterinary students—and has graduated more veterinarians than any other school, 3,815 as of August 1975.

Our Institute of Polar Studies is the only one in the USA to study both the North and South Poles in a wide range of disciplines—botany, climatology, geophysics, and glaciology. It sent the world's first all-woman scientific team to Antarctica in 1969.

The Disaster Research Center is unique in the world—performing sociological research on the reactions of groups and organizations in community-wide emergencies, particularly natural disasters.

Thus, while OSU's Buckeye tree has its roots in Ohio, its branches cover the nation for these and many other reasons. If you are interested in more information on OSU today or on any of our graduate and undergraduate programs, contact: Office of Public Affairs, 190 North Oval Mall, The Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio 43210.

IN THE HUDDLE

By Steve Snapp

Before the start of the current football season, Woody Hayes conceded that the first four games on the Buckeyes' 1975 schedule were as tough as any he had faced in his 25 years as head coach at Ohio State.

"In fact," he allowed, "I don't think any team in the country could open with four tougher opponents than we have this year."

That schedule, comprised of Michigan State, Penn State, North Carolina and UCLA, plus the fact that the Buckeyes had lost 13 starters from a year ago, led most observers to the conclusion that Ohio State would be fortunate to get through the first month of the season with a 2-2 record. There were even some who felt a 1-3 finish was not out of the question.

But things aren't always what they seem. Thanks to four weeks of inspired football, no major injuries to any of the starters and the rapid development of some young talent, Ohio State has rolled to four straight wins and currently holds the top spot in both wire service polls as the nation's No. 1 team.

"The really fine athletes play their best under the most trying of circumstances," explained Hayes. "Our kids knew they had four really tough games to play and they went out and played superb football. It was a challenge to see if we could get to the top and this team accepts challenges exceptionally well."

The climb to the top has been a total team effort, but the play of the OSU defense has been especially noteworthy. Coach George Hill started the year with only three holdovers from 1974, but in four games the opposition has scored a combined total of just 36 points against the young defensive platoon of the Buckeyes.

Led by irrepressible safety Tim Fox, rugged linebacker Ken Kuhn and no-quarter tackle Nick Buonamici, the OSU defense has developed much more rapidly than anyone expected and has improved with each outing.

There were those who felt that the 21-0 victory over Michigan State that launched the season was a fluke. The past three weeks have proven otherwise.

The contribution of the defense to date has to be especially satisfying for seniors Pat Curto and Craig Cassady. Reserves the past three years, Curto has understudied the likes of Jim Cope and Van DeCree during his stay with the Buckeyes, while Cassady has had the unenviable task of playing behind two-time All-American Neal Colzie. There must have been times when the two youngsters felt they would never become regulars.

But their opportunity finally came this year and both have performed capably as starters. Cassady almost singlehandedly destroyed MSU with three interceptions and has improved with each game. Curto, a hard-working, harder-hitting dynamo has played consistently good football and has let it be known that there has been no drop-off in talent on his side of the field.

So now the Buckeyes have built up a full head of steam as they resume their Big Ten schedule today against Iowa. Asked if there might be a let-down against the 0-4 Hawkeyes of Coach Bob Commings, Woody responded, "Of course not. Winning the Big Ten is our goal and you can't let down against any team. Our youngsters have come too far this season. They know you have to go all-out every game if you want to stay on top."

Iowa's record is just a bit deceiving. The Hawkeyes have lost close games to Illinois and Syracuse and their last two losses have been to Penn State and Southern Cal. They held a 10-7 halftime lead against USC and had to play the second half without their two starting linebackers or the outcome may have been different.

Bob Commings' team is not one to be taken lightly, but no team is when you're after the national championship.

BACK OF THE WEEK

CORNELIUS GREENE — QUARTERBACK — His nickname is "Flam" and seldom in his sensational career has he been more flamboyant than last Saturday when he rushed for 120 yards and passed for 98 more in leading the Buckeyes to a 41-20 win over previously unbeaten UCLA. It was easily the best effort of the year for the Washington, D.C. senior who picked the Bruin defense apart with six of nine passing and his slick option running.

SPECIALIST OF THE WEEK

TOM SKLADANY — KICKER — Made two tackles against UCLA and recovered his own on-sides kick to set up the go ahead touchdown against the Bruins. His only punt was a 35-yard effort that was more than 10 yards below his season average, but he still ranks near the top nationally in punting with a 45.2 average. One of the top athletes on the squad, the curly-haired junior can also handle extra point and field goal chores if necessary and could play defensive back if needed.

IOWA OFFENSE

IOWA PLAYERS TO WATCH

ROD WELLINGTON — HALFBACK — Leads the Hawkeyes in rushing, scoring and receiving, and is considered the best all-around player in the Iowa backfield. Rushing totals this year show 161 yards in 43 attempts for a 3.7 average. The Chicago senior has scored three touchdowns on the year, two rushing and one via the pass. His top game of 1975 came last week against USC when he caught five passes for 109 yards, including a 51-yard TD strike. Rushed for 77 yards and one touchdown last year against Ohio State.

ANDRE JACKSON — LINEBACKER — The leading tackler for the Hawkeyes with 44 total participations despite missing some playing time because of injuries. Is in his fourth year as a starter for Iowa and has 383 career tackles. Went to the Hawkeyes as a walk-on and immediately broke into the starting lineup. During his freshman year he had at least 20 tackles in three games and was the first frosh player ever to be named AP and UPI Midwest lineman of the week twice in one season. Led the Big Ten in tackles as a freshman.

An important message for Ohio State football fans who enjoy good food
in pleasant surroundings
and who appreciate good value.

Present this advertisement (no need to tear it out of the program) at our Bevis Hall / West Campus location (see map) before or after any 1975 OSU home game. Buy one of our delicious Whopper, Yumbo or Whaler sandwiches; an order of piping hot fries or onion rings, and a beverage; and get a second Whopper, Yumbo or Whaler free (show us your football ticket or stub and we'll add a chilled fresh apple or pear, also free). Coupon may be redeemed only at Bevis Hall and is good on game days only.

You will enjoy these delicacies in the splendor of the first Burger King restaurant ever to be placed within a college building. It is carpeted, panelled, softly lit, and hung with reproductions of old masters and the French impressionists. The good music of the '70s fills the air around you. And, as if that weren't enough, our massive glass windows afford significant views of the stadium, the main campus, and the emerging downtown skyline.

Truly this is a place to visit.

Keeping Business Healthy

More than 15,000 graduates of Ohio State University's College of Administrative Science blanket the Buckeye State, keeping business healthy and administering state and local public and social service agencies.

Through alumni and faculty — and through students, research projects and public service-oriented continuing education programs of the college — Administrative Science strives to give Ohioans a clear picture of the roles private, quasi-public and public institutions play in their state.

"The College of Administrative Science is much more than a place to learn business administration," says Dr. Edward H. Bowman, dean of the College. Besides business programs in accounting, marketing, finance, and management, the college includes the School of Public Administration, the School of Social Work and the new faculty of Labor and Human Resources.

The college stays in close touch with the changing world around it with a variety of research and programs.

Business trends

The Center for Business and Economic Research publishes monthly reports on business trends in Ohio, covering retail sales, production worker employment and personal income. The Bulletin of Business Research, also published monthly by the center, circulates to Ohio businessmen and public administrators and carries research articles as well as business trend reports.

Research

Research in the college is extensive, ranging from a nationwide look at consumers' uses of credit cards to an international study for the United Nations on the mental effects of long-term imprisonment. The U.N. study was done by the Program for the Study of Crime and Delinquency, part of the School of Public Administration.

Job safety

The Hazards Recognition Program teaches hundreds of Ohio factory workers about safe working practices. The new faculty of Labor Education and Research offers the program with the help of a federal grant at factories in several major Ohio cities.

Community education

The college's public-service programs last year involved more than 16,000 people in 484 non-credit, continuing education courses. Offerings range from short, update workshops on business procedures to the annual two-week intensive Executive Development Program.

The Partners organization, started last year, encourages communication and mutual support between the college and its alumni and friends. More than 700 charter members are registered Partners.

The Business Administration Advisory Council, an experienced group of executives from Ohio and the nation, meets with college administrators twice yearly for counsel on programs in the business administration sector of the college.

Pacesetters, a group of community leaders and executives, meet annually to honor student scholars and leaders in the college. Last spring Archie Griffin was among the leaders honored.

The Executive in Residence Program invites prominent Ohio businessmen to the campus to sit in on classes in their areas of expertise and offer examples and advice based on real-world business experience.

Selected students are involved with work outside the college through an extensive internship program, in which invaluable on-the-job experience is gained. One student intern last year reportedly increased profit contributions of the large company he was with by $230,000 by recommending changes in its service parts pricing strategies.

"Sometimes the interns aren't the only ones that learn from that program," the dean noted.

Minorities

The College of Administrative Science and the Ohio State University Development Fund have launched a major fund-raising drive to provide educational support for minority students planning careers in business.

Under the program, which has a funding goal of $300,000, minority students eligible for aid would be those with advanced standing, proven academic interest, desire for a business career and proven financial need.

Agency Manager

Building an organization is much like building a football team. You secure key personnel and use good coaching and concentrate on the fundamentals of the game, progress will appear and championship form can be attained.

Here in our agency, we have key personnel who have done a great job of recruiting quality men and women. Pictured on this page are some of the key personnel who do an excellent job of coaching and guiding our agents into becoming successful, established career life underwriters. This is a career lifetime opportunity. Qualified individuals may be promoted to management. If you are a person who has a competitive background, has been serious about success and truly desires a career—not a job—why not call Mike Murray, C.L.U. or one of the other agency coaches of the Murray Agency.

Current NCAA legislation limits member institutions to no more than 30 football recruits in a given year. Some college coaches consider that restriction too severe, but not Woody Hayes.

Since Hayes began coaching at Ohio State in 1951, the Buckeyes have rarely ever taken the allowable maximum. The last time it happened was in 1967 when Rex Kern, John Brockington, Jack Tatum and Jim Stillwagon, just to name a few, made up the nucleus of what may have been the best freshman class ever at Ohio State.

But not giving out thirty grants-in-aids every year hasn't hurt the Buckeye cause. Twenty-two of Hayes' 24 OSU teams have produced winning records and the last three have made Rose Bowl appearances.

"We are after quality not quantity when we recruit," explains Hayes. "We don't go after numbers, we try to get players who will fit into our system and be able to make a contribution to our team."

The 1975 frosh class looks like it can do just that. Twenty-four in number, the current crop of yearlings is big, strong and aggressive. That was obvious from the first day of fall practice. And after the youngsters had had an opportunity to familiarize themselves with the OSU system, their talent was equally apparent.

"They're a good group okay and I am sure a number of them will help us this year," said Hayes, who does not hesitate to play freshmen once he deems them ready for the rigors of college football.

Twenty of the newcomers are linemen and linebackers. Graduation depleted the Buckeyes in those two areas last year, so the coaching staff spent the winter and spring looking for players to fill the gap.

The search paid off handsomely. Eight of the new group were first-team prep All-Americans. Nine others were first team all-state picks.

OSU FOOTBALL COACHES

"Whenever you lose a good assistant coach, you must replace him with an assistant who is just as good," WOODY HAYES

Coach Woody Hayes has exercised the above philosophy throughout his coaching career. He believes that the nine assistants who now make up the Buckeye coaching staff are among the finest in college football and one of the chief reasons that Ohio State has enjoyed such success over the years.

Let's meet them:

RALPH STAUB coaches the offensive ends and tackles and is the recruiting coordinator for the Buckeyes. A 1952 graduate of Cincinnati, Ralph joined the OSU staff in 1970.

GEORGE CHAUMP works with the quarterbacks and wide receivers. He has one of the keenest football minds on the staff and has been an offensive innovator since joining the staff in 1968.

MICKY JACKSON is in his second year with the Buckeyes. A 1968 graduate of Marshall, he joined the OSU ranks last year as offensive back-field coach.

ALEX GIBBS is the newest member of the Ohio State staff, having joined the Buckeyes last March as offensive guard and center coach. Alex, a graduate of Davidson College, was an assistant at West Virginia before coming to OSU.

GEORGE HILL has been defensive coordinator at Ohio State since he joined the Buckeye staff in 1971. In addition to overseeing the defense, Hill also coaches the linebackers. Under Hill, the OSU defense has become one of the best in the country.

ESCO SARKKINEN is the veteran of the Ohio State staff. The Buckeyes' defensive end coach, Sark joined the Buckeyes in 1946 as end coach for Paul Bixler. Sark is a 1939 OSU grad, earning All-American football honors as a senior.

RICHARD WALKER coaches the defensive back-field for the Buckeyes. He has been at Ohio State since 1969 and is responsible for recruiting in the Cleveland area.

CHUCK CLAUSEN joined the OSU staff in 1971 as defensive tackle coach. A graduate of New Mexico, he is responsible for recruiting along the eastern seaboard.

JOHN MUMMEY serves as varsity reserve and weight coach for the Buckeyes. He joined the staff in 1969 as freshman coach after a two year stay as head coach at Painesville Harvey High.

More than a half-century ago, we made a pretty strong statement. But the years have proven us correct.

MCQ limestone has been used in a multitude of projects since Ohio Stadium was constructed. From driveways and patios to expressways and major commercial buildings, the list includes the Ohio Bell Building, the State Office Tower and the new Capitol Parking Garage.

Limestone from MCQ is helping Central Ohio grow. For proof, just look around!

Chevette.

Chevrolet's new kind of American car.

- Chevette is international in concept, design and heritage. It incorporates many engineering features proved around the world.
- Its wheelbase is 94.3 inches. And overall length is 158.7 inches.
- Its turning circle, compared with that of any foreign or domestic car, is among the smallest.
- It gives you more head room and front leg room than some leading foreign cars.
- It can carry cargo up to four feet wide.
- It's basically a metric car. And, as you know, the metric system is on its way to becoming the standard American measurement.
- It has a standard 1.4-litre engine, with a 1.6-litre engine available (except on the Scooter).
- It comes with a self-service booklet.
- It's a two-door hatchback, with seating for four in the standard Chevette, Rally, Sport and Woody versions. A two-passenger version, the Scooter, is also available.
- It is sold and serviced by every Chevrolet dealer in America—all 6,030 of them.

Eddie Beamon doing what he does best, rushing the passer.

Nick Buonamici wears a determined look as he moves into position.

Middle guard Aaron Brown is the quickest of the Buckeyes' defensive lineman — and that's saying something.

Bucks Defensive Line Green, But Rock-Solid

Former Ohio State assistant coach Ernie Godfrey liked nothing better than to see his players graduate.

"That's the reason they come to college," he often remarked. "Besides it gives the younger players a chance to move up and prove themselves."

Godfrey first made that statement more than twenty-five years ago, but his "Law of Graduation" still holds true today. A look at the Buckeyes' defensive line, which graduated all but one starter a year ago, is proof of that fact.

With two of last year's departed regulars All-Americans, the "front five" was a question mark heading into the current campaign. But with the season just four games old, some of the younger players that Godfrey alluded to have moved in and answered those questions.

Led by All-America hopeful Nick Buonamici at tackle, the men in the trenches have been solid as a rock, both against the run and the pass, and their play has been the catalyst behind the fine all-around showing of the defense thus far. It's a unit with strength, speed, aggressiveness and most importantly quickness.

"It's the quickest line that we have had in my five years here," evaluates Chuck Clausen, defensive tackle and middle guard coach. "Speed and quickness separate the great teams from the ordinary ones, and this line has a great abundance of both."

Indeed it does. In four games the line has already accounted for 17 sacks and a minus 87 yards in losses. Throw in six forced fumbles and seven interceptions and it's easy to see the all-around prowess of the men up front. They have made life miserable for opposing ball carriers, especially quarterbacks.

Buonamici, a 6-3, 236-pound junior, who is the lone returnee, leads the way. Big Nick does it all and his fine play week after week has inspired the newcomers. He's fast gaining a national reputation for his play and the sight of him ripping through two opposing blockers, as he is on the cover, has become a familiar one.

Eddie Beamon is the Buckeyes' other tackle. A spectacular pass rusher with 4.7 speed, he leads the team in tackles with 42 (one more than Buonamici) and in tackles behind the line of scrimmage with seven for a minus 43 yards. He was brilliant last week at UCLA and was voted Defensive Player of the Game by the writers in the Press Box. Following the game, Bruin quarterback John Sciarra conceded that he had seen enough of No. 67 to last a lifetime.

Sandwiched in between Buonamici and Beamon is middle guard Aaron Brown. Like Beamon, a sophomore, "Chunky" is already being tabbed as one of the best middle guards ever to play for the Buckeyes. Certainly he is the quickest. He's often in the backfield before the quarterback has full control of the ball, and even though a lot of teams have tried double teaming the former Warren Western Reserve standout, it hasn't seemed to slow him down at all. He's a close second to Beamon in sacks with five.

Running outside, it would seem, should be easier. But it isn't. That's the domain of junior Bob Brudzinski and senior Pat Curto and the two first-year starters guard it carefully.

Brudzinski, a lanky 6-4, 220 pounder from Fremont, has three sacks and 16 tackles to his credit. The one-time Ohio high school Lineman of the Year goes about his business with devastating effectiveness. He's a top-flight athlete, who has played in the shadow of Van DeCree for two years but is making a name for himself now.

Curto plays the closed side of the field where the emphasis is on muscle and mobility. He has plenty of both. One of the strongest and best conditioned players on the squad, he plays with all-out enthusiasm and dedication. His performance has been one of the nice surprises of the season.

It's a young front line, at least in terms of experience. But it is one that has shown signs of greatness heading into this afternoon's game.

Lanky Bob Brudzinski gives the Buckeyes speed, quickness and agility on the open-side.

Pat Curto lines up ready for the play to come his way.

Heavy Duty Duo Keys Hawkeyes' Line

It would take special scales to measure Joe Devlin and Rod Walters at the same time. They weigh a total of 533 pounds and are something special in Iowa's offensive line.

Devlin, a 277-pound guard, and Walters, a 256-pound tackle, both operate on the left side of center for a team Coach Bob Commings says is essentially left handed.

Like most offensive linemen, Devlin and Walters have had their share of anonymity. Now the two seniors are getting a reasonable amount of attention.

Their size is obvious. They also have quickness, speed and experience in the rugged Big Ten. They have drawn some attention from pre-season honor teams and professional scouts are buzzing about the two burly Hawkeyes.

"Most of the attributes Joe and Rod possess are fairly obvious," says Kent Stephenson, Iowa's offensive line coach. "What a lot of people don't realize, however, is what tremendous athletes these young men are.

"They are massive and strong and their size is awesome, but they also have a great deal of athletic ability that makes them something special at their positions."

Walters, 6-4 from Berkley, Mich., and Devlin, 6-5, from Malvern, Pa., have lived by a regimented weight program since they came to Iowa. Walters arrived here at 215 pounds and Devlin at 225. They've added a total of some 100 pounds. Has it paid off?

"Absolutely," says Walters. "The Big Ten is a very physical league and you must have size to play successfully. You get banged around pretty good."

Both would like to take a shot at pro ball, and they will unquestionably get the chance, but putting Iowa's football program on the right foot in their senior year is uppermost on their minds.

"We'd like to get things going here before we leave," says Devlin. "I'm not concerned right now about what pro scouts think. If we do our jobs right the scoreboard will tell the story."

"We're having some offensive problems right now," says Coach Bob Commings, "but they don't reflect on Joe or Rod. They are both doing a great job."

Our Game Plan Is No Secret.

If industrial machinery plays an important part in your business, then you probably know all about our game plan. An impressive line-up of power transmission equipment, pumps and compressors supported by a first-rate team of industrial sales engineers.

In addition to a complete inventory of new equipment, our parts and repair service departments are always on call to see that a minor equipment breakdown doesn't become a plant shutdown.

And with five locations throughout Ohio and West Virginia, we're always close by when you need help.

So when your game plan calls for power transmission equipment, pumps, compressors and bearings, remember the Ohio Transmission Corporation. We're geared to help you meet tomorrow's needs today.

Drug Education:

Never preach, never scare
Just the facts

Ron Dechant (left) and Jeff Booth, members of the drug information committee, demonstrate the activities of a normal mouse before it receives an injection of drugs.

Community-conscious pharmacy students from Ohio State University take the time to go into more than 50 Central Ohio schools a year to help youngsters make up their own minds about drugs.

They do not preach. Nor do they use scare tactics. They only present the facts and demonstrate what drugs can do to mice.

This and other community programs, believes OSU Pharmacy Dean Lloyd M. Parks, are big reasons why Ohio State's College of Pharmacy ranks third in the nation.

Change Magazine recently published the rating after polling deans of professional schools throughout the country.

"We feel that as part of a large, comprehensive university we have an obligation to provide things that will be of interest to people outside of the College of Pharmacy," Dean Parks says.

It was the pharmacy students themselves who began the drug information program seven years ago. It is sponsored by the OSU chapter of the American Pharmaceutical Association.

"Some of the students were concerned about unfortunate drug experiences they had observed and decided that they could make a contribution to the solution of the problem by providing information on drugs," he recalls.

Sound information about drugs also reaches the university community through two courses open to non-pharmacy majors.

— Rational/Irrational Use of Drugs, taught each quarter, provides basic information on physiological effects of drugs of abuse. It shows what happens to the body and looks at legal restrictions and social implications of drug use, misuse and abuse.

— Pharmacology: An Introduction of Drug Action, is a more advanced course, offered winter quarter. It deals with a wide range of prescription and non-prescription drugs, surveying their development from the natural source to the final product.

The class discusses what happens to the drugs after consumption, why they work, why they quit working after a length of time and the abuse potential of these medications. It also goes into drugs used in treatment of mental disorder, cancer, heart disease and allergies.

As many as 350 students enroll in these two classes each quarter. Many of them say they experiment with drugs.

"We feel a need for better information on the part of students about the drugs they have the opportunity to experiment with and we have the faculty and the background to give it to them," Dean Parks says.

"These courses don't preach," he stresses. We give the students information as a basis for making informed decisions about whether or not to experiment with these drugs."

LARRY KAIN, senior from Dayton. Has been one of the Buckeyes' most consistent performers this fall as a starting tight end. A fine blocker and a sure-handed receiver with fine speed. Caught two passes in the North Carolina game, setting up the Buckeyes' second touchdown. Played defensive end in 1973 but moved over to offense last year. Injuries have limited his playing time up until this year. Was an all-Ohio linebacker at Northmont where the football team was undefeated his senior year.

Meet the Buckeyes

LENNY WILLIS, senior from Washington, D.C. Probably the fastest player ever to play for Ohio State. The Buckeyes' starting split end, he has been timed at 9.3 sec. in the 100-yard dash. Also returns kickoffs and could play tailback or wingback if needed. Has just three pass receptions so far this year, but one was a 64-yard scoring catch that was the turning point in the Buckeyes' 21-0 win over Michigan State. A top sprinter on the OSU track team who envisions a spot on the 1976 Olympic Team.

JIMMY MOORE, freshman from Tempe, Ariz. A 6-5, 255-pound tight end with good speed, better moves and fine hands. Coaches predict he is destined to become a top college receiver. Has seen action in every game this year, mostly in short-yardage situations when the Buckeyes go to their two tight end offense. An outstanding athlete at Marcos de Niza High School, where he was a consensus football and basketball All-American. Was named Arizona Player of the Year, as well as Outstanding Jr. Athlete of Tempe in 1974.

HERMAN JONES, sophomore from Miami, Fla. The Buckeyes' No. 2 wide receiver behind Lenny Willis. Sideline by minor injuries much of last year, but still played in four games. Given a try at defensive halfback in spring practice, but shifted back to offense in the fall. Coaches feel he has found a home at split end and will continue to improve with playing experience. Played wingback, tight end and split end at South Dade High School where he was an all-state pick.

GREG STORER, sophomore from Cincinnati. Recruited as an offensive tackle but moved to tight end last year because of his lack of bulk. Has adjusted rapidly to his new position, giving the Buckeyes some much needed depth at tight end. Has good blocking techniques and at 6-5 makes an easily distinguishable target for Buckeye quarterbacks. Will also play some tackle this year, making him doubly valuable on road trips. Has impressed the coaching staff with his competitiveness and toughness.

SPECIAL OFFER TO FOOTBALL FANS!!

If Your Sweetheart Reminds You of SUSAN WHEELER
Tell Her So With a Copy of the Exciting, New Novel

YOU DON'T HAVE TO SLAY A DRAGON!

That Romantic Comedy of College Football

by JOHN and MARJORIE STUART

ILLUSTRATED IN COLOR by MARJORIE STUART

FOOTBALL FANS!

If you remember when college meant football games, sorority girls, fraternity pranks and banana splits, or if you wish you did, then you won't want to miss this romantic comedy (based largely on true experiences).

Follow the nostalgic adventures of Susan Wheeler and Andy MacLeod as their romance becomes a legend of the campus. Those were the days when the coach was furious because the back tackled too hard! When the two most beautiful girls in the whole college schemed to LOSE a beauty contest! The Quarterback impressed his sweetheart by giving her a tall stack of thick reference books instead of flowers. A perfectly sane, normal freshman co-ed was scared to death that the upperclassmen would NOT paddle her?

The big scandal was pretty innocent by today's standards. Innocent, but a little confusing. A cute blonde shocked everyone when she ran across campus in her nightie and kissed the football hero. Boy did that make him mad! He swore she'd have to kiss him again — with her clothes on. But we are telling you too much. Buy the book and find out how it all happened.

Iowa Researchers Pioneer New Method for Studying Brain Cells in 3-D

A SURFACE contour view of a granule cell from the cerebellum of a cat is shown as it comes from a computer print-out. The computer's "memory" records and stores information about a cell as the focus is changed on an attached microscope. When ordered, the computer can produce the image of the cell and rotate the view so that it can be seen from many different angles.

Researchers at The University of Iowa are pioneering in a method aimed at a three-dimensional look at brain cells.

Dr. Rodolfo Llinas and his colleagues at the Division of Neurobiology in the Department of Physiology and Biophysics have developed a technique by which an individual nerve cell preparation from the brain can be visualized from many different angles on a computer display terminal.

The U of I team is considered by many to be unique in the world for its work in this area.

This advance is possible only through the use of the computer "memory," a complex system in which bits of information are recorded and stored in an orderly, retrievable way.

In the case of the cell, the microscopic image is detected by a video camera and this image is digitized by an image analysis computer. Selected information from the image, based on gray level or density, is then transmitted to a larger computer through a memory buffer system.

Later, the computer can present a visual display on a cathode ray tube, similar to a TV tube, in such a way that it appears the cell itself is turning around.

In contrast to this precision, the "memory" of the average human who is looking and focussing through a microscope seems vague and non-quantifiable.

Dr. Llinas explains that the ability to look at brain cells in three dimensions may aid in discovering the minute differences in nerve cells which result in diseases. He sees the possibility of setting up communication with neurological centers equipped with sophisticated computers so that a "bank" of "normal" cells can be developed.

The computer will be able to retain and compare the shapes of thousands of cells, enabling future clinicians to distinguish in three dimensions the pathological characteristics of abnormal cells.

"For instance, in some grave types of nervous diseases such as mental retardation, it has been suggested that a major problem is the detailed form of the nerve cells. We must learn all we can about such details, and the only rational way of doing it is with automatized technology," Dr. Llinas says.

Computers themselves are now widely used and not unusual at the U of I Health Center. At University Hospitals, for example, scheduling of the more than 30,000 in-patients and the 250,000 clinic patients each year is funneled through computer equipment. An increasingly greater role is being played by computers in directly monitoring patients during surgery, intensive care, and some diagnostic procedures.

However, Dr. Llinas' use of the computer differs in that it is a direct application to the problem confronting the researcher in the quest for organizing information on cells, the basic units of life.

"We're talking about 100 billion cells in the brain. That is not only an enormous number of cells, but the cells are also of enormous complexity. These are not marbles we're talking about," Dr. Llinas comments.

"How do we make sense of such a situation?" he asks. "The dream has been to have a mechanism capable of distinguishing cells, not just as they're seen through the microscope, but as the cells ARE, in three dimensions. The mechanism should be able to rotate them and tell how typical of a class a particular cell may be.

"The computer gives us a system to 'remember,'" he notes. "The information goes to the memory section and then the computer can reconstruct the cell and rotate it for us when called upon."

The next step which has already been taken by Dr. Llinas' team is to stimulate the cells in various ways to see how the action is transferred from one part of the cell to another — all this in three dimensions.

The research in this area is being funded by the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke. Dr. Llinas came to the U of I in 1970 with the aid of a National Science Foundation award which the University received to develop a "Center of Excellence" in the biological sciences.

TV service technicians name Zenith for the two things you want most in color TV.

I. Best Picture.

In a recent nationwide survey of independent TV service technicians, Zenith was named, more than any other brand, as the color TV with the best picture.

Question: In general, of the color TV brands you are familiar with, which one would you say has the best overall picture?

Answers:

Zenith .....	36%
Brand A.....	20%
Brand B.....	10%
Brand C.....	7%
Brand D.....	6%
Brand E.....	3%
Brand F.....	2%
Brand G.....	2%
Brand H.....	2%
Brand I.....	1%
Other Brands.....	3%
About Equal.....	11%
Don't Know.....	4%

Note: Answers total over 100% due to multiple responses.

II. Fewest Repairs.

In the same survey, the service technicians named Zenith as the color TV needing the fewest repairs. By more than 2-to-1 over the next brand.

For survey details, write to the Vice President, Consumer Affairs, Zenith Radio Corporation, 1900 N. Austin Avenue, Chicago, IL 60639.
